Lake Chelan Land Company and a New Headquarters/Hotel in Manson

By John V. Peters (November 19, 2020)

The Lake Chelan Land Company had purchased, irrigated and developed the land on the north shore of Lake Chelan seven miles uplake from the town of Chelan. The company founded the town of Manson in 1911, named after Manson F. Backus who was the major investor behind the project. Manson Backus was the head of the National Bank of Commerce in Seattle, which was the largest bank in Seattle at the time in terms of the amount of assets. His son, LeRoy Manson Backus, was the President of the Lake Chelan Land Company. LeRoy Backus wanted a headquarters for the Lake Chelan Land Company as they continued development and accelerated their efforts to sell plots of land, five acres or larger, that had been cleared and planted with apple trees. Reports of this intention and progress toward its achievement were reported in the Chelan Leader newspaper.

The Chelan Leader, August 24, 1911.[1]

Hotel At Manson

Bids have been asked by Leroy M. Backus, president of the Lake Chelan Land Co., for the construction of a hotel at the new town of Manson.

Plans were exhibited to the News man in the company's office one day this week.

The plans call for a two-story building, 57 x 40 in dimensions. The first floor is to contain an office and private apartments for Mr. Backus, which will include dining room, kitchen and bath room. The lower floor will likewise contain an office and drafting room. The second floor calls for a large living room surrounded by six bed rooms.

The rafters in the living room will be left bare to give it a rustic appearance. Underneath the floor a pit will be built in which a furnace will be installed.

The building will be of a bungalow style, and will be located in the most desirable portion of the new town.

For financial or other reasons this plan fell by the wayside and the hotel envisioned by Leroy Backus in August 1911 was not built. The hotel idea was not picked up again until 2 ½ years later.

Paul Ford, Builder and Owner of Wapato Inn

Not until 1914 was the plan given new life. On February 23, 1914 The Chelan Leader reported:

The frequently repeated report that a large hotel would be erected at Manson seems at last to have become a substantial reality. Paul Ford, the enterprising young engineer associated with the Lake Chelan Land Co., has plans drafted for a 15-room hotel on which work will begin soon.

[1] The Chelan Leader of August 24, 1911 is missing from the bound copies held by the Lake Chelan Museum. I found this article in the Chelan Valley Mirror of August 11, 1936 under the heading "25 Years Ago". None of the other August issues of the Chelan Leader contained this article, nor did the issues of the surrounding months. By elimination, I conclude that the article was in the August 24, 1911 issue.

The Chelan Leader, April 16, 1914:

The foundation for the new hotel will be completed this week and next week the superstructure will be started.

The Chelan Leader, May 7, 1914:

Work on the superstructure of the new hotel building is being pushed along vigorously with a large force of carpenters employed, and the roof will be on in about two weeks.

The Chelan Leader, May 21, 1914:

Work on the new hotel building is progressing steadily and very satisfactorily. The building, according to the new plans, will not be as large as was originally intended, but it will be much more attractive in exterior appearance and much better appointed in the interior than was provided by the original plans. The building affords only six guest rooms but it is the plan of the owner to build small cottages nearby as the demand for more room increases.

The Chelan Leader, June 11, 1914:

Work on the new hotel is progressing rapidly and the structure will be complete and ready for opening to the public on the fourth of July.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, April 22, 1915

Paul Ford and family moved into their new bungalow just south of Wapato Inn last Thursday, having leased that cozy hostelry to Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron, experienced hotel people formerly of Seattle.

A canvas of the residents on the project last week at the request of the Electric Light Co. of Chelan indicates that a line to Manson will pay. The work will doubtless be undertaken at an early date.

Manson had electric light for the first time last Friday night, when a moving picture show was given in the old school house under the management of the Ruby Theatre. Electricity was furnished by a portable engine and dynamo and everything ran lovely until the fourth reel when the foundation under the engine began to work loose and the resulting vibration threw the governor and carburetor adjustments out and finally caused a shutdown. The audience was very considerate in withholding criticism and Mr. Potter is more determined than ever to make the show at Manson a success next Friday.

The Chelan News-Leader, May 13, 1915

Chelan Electric Company, a corporation closely affiliated with Great Northern railway, bought M.E. Field hotel property at the head of Lake Chelan for $25,000—giving Chelan Electric Company all the shore properties with the exception of a few small tracts. This will allow the building of a dam on Lake Chelan and the raising of the Lake.

The Chelan News-Leader, May 27, 1915

The Wapato Inn has, as many predicted, outgrown its capacity. Arrangements have been made by Paul Ford to finish up the large airy basement for a kitchen, dining room and laundry, and the house will be enlarged by the addition of several bed rooms. Modern plumbing and heating apparatus will be installed and the whole building will be wired for light. This will make it second to no hotel on Lake Chelan.

The Chelan News-Leader, July 15, 1915

The improvements on the Wapato Inn announced a week or two weeks ago are now under way. Much galvanized pipe, iron bath tubs, lavatory bowls and other plumbing material is on the ground and more arriving daily. Paul Ford is at Wenatchee looking up other supplies. Gordon's mill people are making deliveries via ferry, of a quantity of lumber to be used in alterations.

The finishing of the daylight basement was done, the house was plumbed and supplied with electrical wiring and heating stoves were added but the house was not expanded to provide additional bed rooms or bathrooms. Nor were small cottages added to the property to increase room capacity, as had been indicated as the plan in the article of May 21, 1914.

The LeRoy Backus plan is important because it describes the building he wanted. Paul Ford built his building with LeRoy Backus' wishes and needs in mind. The Wapato Inn was sold to the Lake Chelan Land Company on August 12, 1916, although there is every evidence that LeRoy Backus was staying there and using it from the time of its completion. For Example,

The Chelan News-Leader, May 27, 1915

For several days during the week, Mr. and Mrs. [Manson] F. Backus and Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Green of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Swalwell and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jensen of Everett, were the guests of LeRoy Backus at Wapato Inn. All the people are financially interested in the project, and they were much pleased with the progress made in its development.

The Lake Chelan News-Leader, March 16, 1916

The appearance of Wapato Inn is being improved by a coat of paint. The interior arrangement has been changed to make more sleeping apartments and when the hotel is again opened to the public it will be a comfortable and modern establishment.

The accompanying floorspace and room layout drawings are based on the published information and, where necessary, on my creative imagination.

In the case of the plan for a headquarters building and small hotel designed by the Lake Chelan Land Company president LeRoy Manson Backus, the newspaper article gave the dimensions of the proposed building, the fact that it would have two stories and a basement heating room, the fact that it was to have a residence for LeRoy and adequate drafting space for the civil engineers working for him, and the fact that it would include six bedrooms for hotel residents. The LCLC was still engaged in irrigation, land clearing, apple tree planting and maintenance and the marketing and sales of plots with fruit-bearing trees. The article said that LeRoy had left a set of drawings of the proposed building in The Chelan Leader offices for anyone to view. However, as far as I know, those drawings have been lost to history. Consequently, I have had to exercise judgment in the arranging and sizing the various rooms. LeRoy did not mention a dining room and kitchen, but I assume these would be necessary. Also, he doesn't mention bathrooms. I have used my judgment and the space available to include bathrooms in each guest room and in LeRoy's apartment as well as a public half-bath off the dining and drafting room areas.

In the case of the actual building constructed by Paul Ford and designated as the Wapato Inn, I grew up in this building and have been living here in retirement for the past 17 years. I have used the newspaper articles about the original building and my first-hand observation of the changes that were made by M. E. Field in 1917 and the changes made by my father in 1971. The changes made by M. E. Field to turn the Inn into a personal residence are evident doorways no longer in use and in changes in materials for a new wall separating what I believe was originally a large drafting room into two bedrooms on the first floor. And I personally observed the enclosure of one-half of the front porch by my father in order to give my mother's parents a sitting room of their own when they joined the household for their last few years.

Owners and Residents

As a point of interest, I will identify the different owners and family residents as well as some of the visitors at the Wapato Inn.

Owners

Paul N. and Mary G. Ford, Purchased lots 26, 27 of block 33 from LCLC on March 19, 1914, and built Wapato Inn during 1914.

Paul N. and Mary G. Ford, Purchased lot 25 of block 33 from LCLC on May 20, 1915.

Lake Chelan Land Company (President LeRoy M. Backus), purchased all three lots and the Wapato Inn on August 12, 1916.

Lake Chelan Land Company was legally declared bankrupt on September 13, 1917. Walter M. Olive of Cashmere (my cousin on my mother's side) was appointed to administer all company assets.

All remaining assets were sold at auction to Chelan Orchards Company (Seattle) for $325,000.

Lots 25, 26, 27 of block 33 and the Wapato Inn were sold to Elmer and Minnie McReynolds of Wenatchee for $1,200 on May 1, 1937. Minnie McReynolds was related to the Fort family in Manson.

The McReynolds were legally declared bankrupt on March 19, 1941 with Daniel S. Evans of Wenatchee appointed as Referee in Bankruptcy.

Lots 25, 26, 27 and the home were sold for an unspecified amount (a Declaration of Homestead dated January 25, 1941 placed a value on the properties of $1,000) to Modest and Dorothy G. Peters on August 22, 1945.

The lots and home remain in the ownership of Modest and Dorothy Peters' still-living children, Don and John Peters. John has lived in the home since August 2003, following Dorothy's death in May 2003.

Family Residents

Paul N. and Mary E. Ford, owners.

Merrit E. (57) and Martha (45) Field, their children Hal (14), Martha Joy (9), and Walter (6) and Martha's brother John Ohlhausen (49), by lease, 1917-1921. Residents per 1920 Census.

In the 1920 census Harry Saddler, age 64; his wife Mary, age 49; his two sons James, age 21, and Perry, age 20; and his daughter, Lillie, age 9, were living together at Tunk Creek, Okanogan, Washington. The entire family seems to have moved to Manson in late 1920 or early 1921 and leased the house from Chelan Orchards Company when the Field family moved away. The Saddler family seems to have run the building as the Saddler Hotel or the Manson Hotel as well as living there themselves, accommodating the needs of the Chelan Orchards Company which continued to need temporary lodging for potential land buyers coming to Manson. The two sons moved to Idaho sometime after a disastrous fire destroyed the Saddler saw mill on Manson Bay and Harry, Mary and Lillie also moved to Idaho in 1927 or 1928.

Chelan Orchards Company continued to use the building as an office and sales headquarters and rental and temporary lodging facility for almost another ten years. Diamando (Manda) Tagas, daughter of John and Helen Tagas, relates that her father told her that he rented a room in the former Wapato Inn from 1927 into 1930. There is anecdotal evidence that single school teachers stayed at the former Wapato Inn in the 1920's and/or the early 1930's. My cousin Vera Peters, later Riggins, referred to the old hotel as a teacherage, which she explained was a home for single school teachers when she was growing up in Manson. Vera graduated from Manson High School in 1933.

Elmer and Minnie McReynolds purchased the properties for $1,200 on May 1, 1937. Minnie was a relative of the Forrest Davis family of Wenatchee and of the Harold Fort family of Manson. The McReynolds hosted numerous events at the former Wapato Inn for this broad array of relatives, of which many photos remain. From the memory of Alice (Fort) Killian, it appears that Elmer built a wooden model of the house on the concrete extension of the front right of the lawn. One photograph remains of this approximately six-foot by four-foot by four-foot model. Later, Modest Peters sold the model to an interested buyer from Seattle. Elmer also build a model stone castle on the lawn extension on the left front side of the house. It eventually fell apart from the Peters children playing on it.

Modest and Dorothy G. Peters purchased the property on August 22, 1945, and moved in with their four children, Ed (12), Barbara (7), Don (3) and John (1).

The Wapato Inn

By John V. Peters

I want to give the history of the Wapato Inn at Manson. Built in 1914 and operated until 1937, with a five-year hiatus as a private residence from 1917 through 1921, the Inn was intimately associated with the Lake Chelan Land Company and later with the Chelan Orchards corporation. These two corporations developed and sold orchard land and town site lots in Manson. Before giving the history of the Inn, I want to set the scene leading to the construction and operation of the Wapato Inn as described in The Chelan Leader newspaper in 1912.

The Wapato Project[1]

A few days ago President LeRoy M. Backus of the Lake Chelan Land company, the promoters and builders of the Wapato irrigation project in the Lake Chelan valley, picked from a thrifty young apple tree growing not far from the Wapato mission church several fine red Rome Beauty apples. The tree is less than eighteen months old, reckoned from the time of permanent planting; and only two years ago the land where this tree is now growing lay just as it came from the hand of Nature. Up to that time it had known no other crop than sagebrush, bunchgrass and wild mountain flowers; it had furnished food for no other living creature than the sleepy-eyed siwash cayuse; it had been the home only of the birds of the air and the insects of the earth.

From a ten acre tract of this same land Leonard Olive harvested 2000 sacks of potatoes this year, besides a large quantity of corn, carrots, cabbage and other garden produce all of which was planted only three rows in each open space between two rows of young trees. And from some of the same land used by Post & Sons for a nursery, fifty potatoes, all large enough to be used, were dug from one hill a few days ago.

Water, put upon the land by an enterprising development company with capital to back the enterprise, has made the change.

This is a brief story of how ten thousand acres of land in the best apple growing district on the American continent is being transformed from an unproductive waste into one of the biggest and finest orchards in the world.

Hundreds of men and scores of teams have been employed continuously since early spring.

The work accomplished includes everything in the line of the construction of an irrigation system and the reclamation of irrigable land. Flumes have been built, pipelines laid, canals excavated, dams constructed, and hundreds of acres of land have been cleared, broken and planted to orchard trees. And many miles of wagon road, the best in the valley, have been built.

[1] "The Wapato Project" is a long article in The Chelan Leader of November 21, 1912, from which I am quoting only a few paragraphs and lines.

In Indian allotments lands secured through the United States government and in homestead lands purchased from white settlers, the Lake Chelan Land company has acquired approximately 7,000 acres of land lying under the proposed canals of the irrigation project. Of this about 6,000 acres is classed as tillable orchard land. One thousand acres is waste land. Besides the company's holdings there are about 4,000 acres of irrigable and tillable land under the project which is still owned by original settlers and homesteaders, making a total area of 10,000 acres under the irrigation system as it will be constructed in accordance with present plans.

The greater part of the work of clearing and breaking the land and planting trees has been done under the supervision of Leonard Olive.

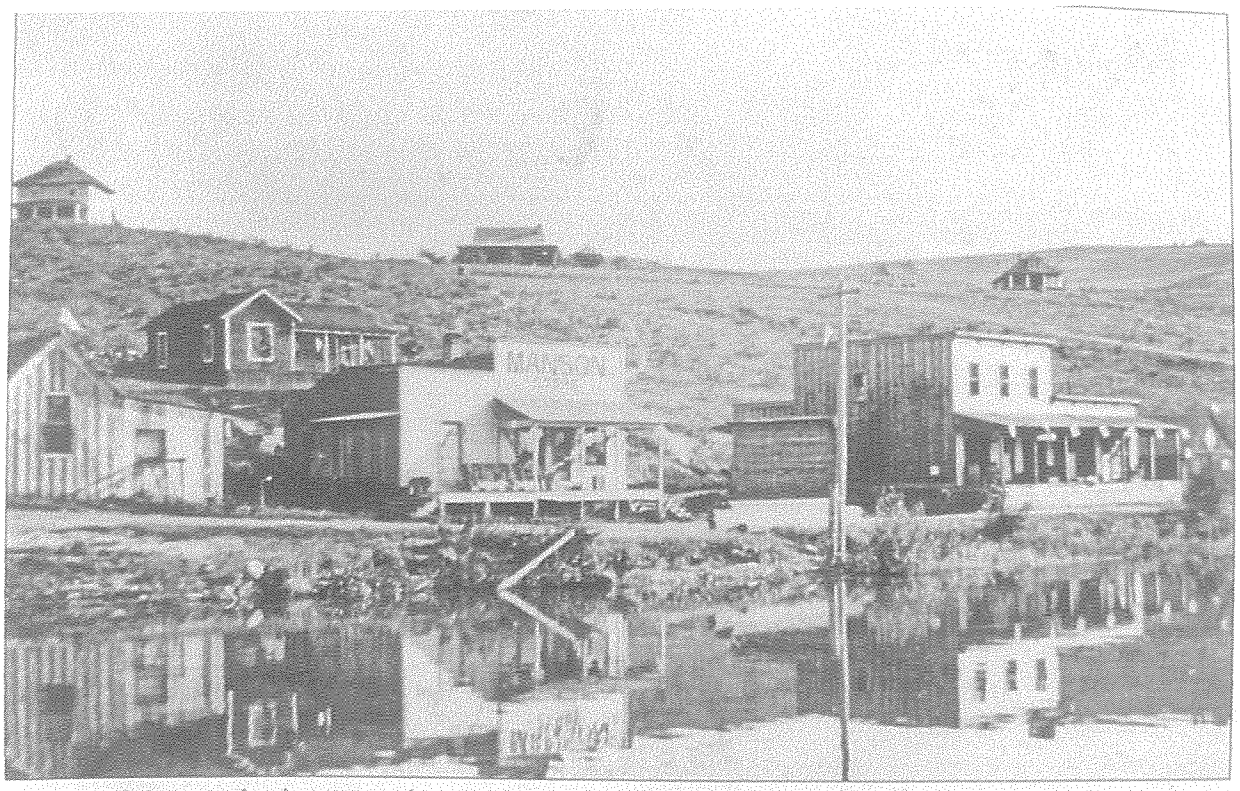
Mr. Olive, who formerly lived in Cashmere, arrived here rather late in the spring of 1911 to take charge of the agricultural end of the development of the project, which was then just beginning to assume definite form.

The marking out of rows for planting was done on engineering principles. The trees are set on the diagonal twenty-six feet apart each way, making an average of seventy-five trees to the acre. Five varieties of standard commercial apples were planted in equal parts—Winesaps, Staymen, Jonathan, Rome Beauty and Delicious.

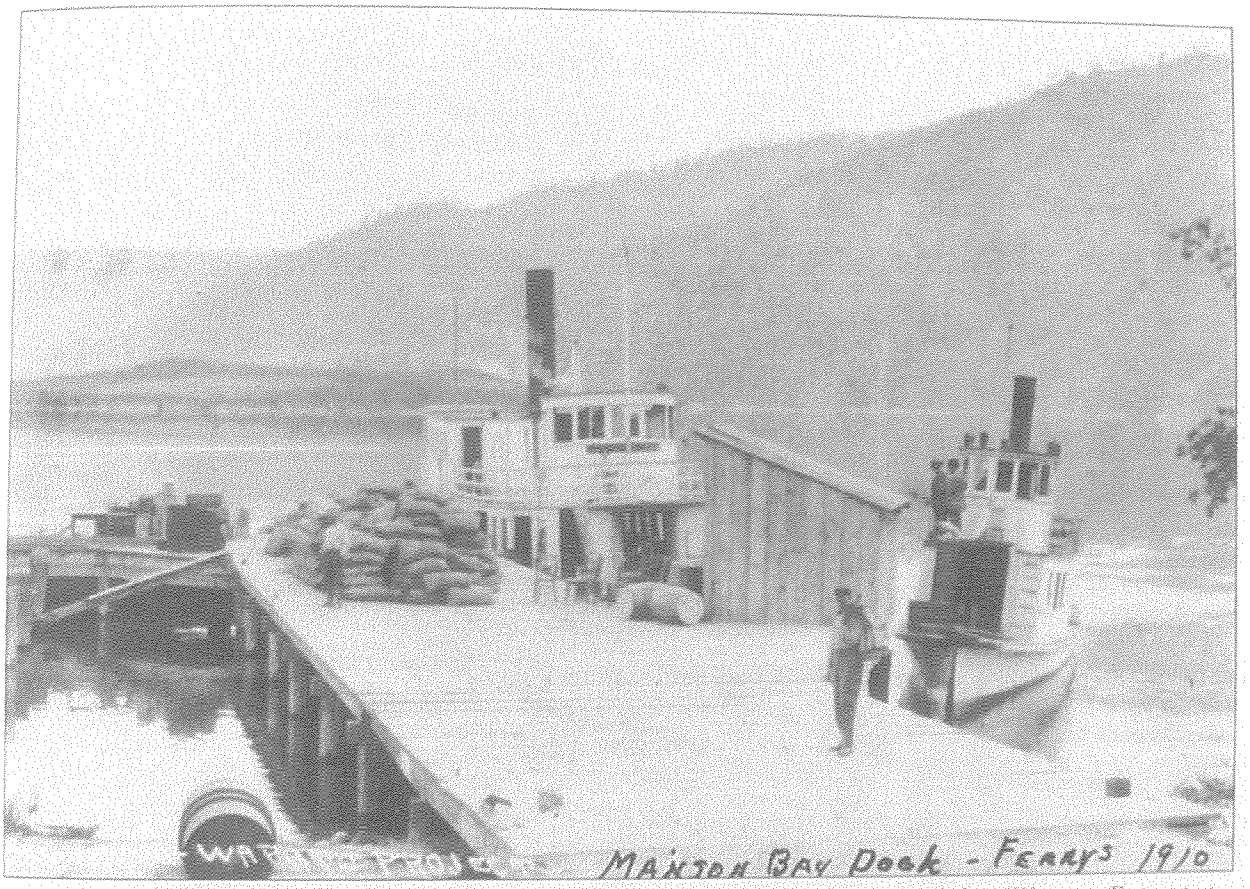
Mr. Olive has built an attractive lakeshore home in the town of Manson.

At the townsite of Manson there has also been much improvement this year. A. A. Watkinson established a general store there early in the summer and has been doing a thriving business. Several new residences and a school building have been erected during the summer. A post office has also been established there.

Following are two photos of early Manson from Images of America: Lake Chelan Valley, page 77. The first shows the shoreline of Manson bay with its tiny business community. The second, also available in Glimpses page 39, shows the large boat dock located on the up lake curve of Manson bay to the east of the business community; Wapato Point, the western curve of Manson bay, is clearly visible in the background. The large pile of sacks on the dock awaiting loading on the boat almost certainly contain potatoes grown between the rows of young apple trees. These photos illustrate the sparse nature of buildings in the Manson community in the early years following the founding of the town in the summer of 1911. And it reflects the fact that the main means of transport of goods at the time was by boat. Since the Lake Chelan Land Company was eagerly seeking to sell lots in the new town as well as orchard tracts to agricultural and business pioneers, one can see the need for some kind of housing to accommodate visitors and potential buyers.



By 1914, Manson had a general store with a post office inside, a barbershop, Blanchard's Eating House, a drugstore, and a land office. The Sherman Bell house is seen on the upper left. (From the Irma Keeney collection; courtesy of Dennis King.)



In 1910, a ferry ran between Manson and the First Creek area across the lake. Wapato Point is in the background. (From the Irma Keeney collection; courtesy of Dennis King.)

First Plans for a Hotel in Manson

LeRoy Backus of Seattle, President of the Lake Chelan Land Company, founded the town of Manson on the north shore of Lake Chelan in the summer of 1911.[2] LeRoy platted, founded and named the town of Manson in honor of his father, Manson F. Backus, who was then President of the National Bank of Commerce in Seattle and personally a large investor in the Wapato project.[3]

The Chelan Leader, August 24, 1911 carried the following article.[4]

[2] "The Lake Chelan Land company's engineers are engaged this week at staking out the townsite of Manson." The Chelan Leader, August 17, 1911.

[3] Background on Manson Backus can be found in Gold Horizon: The Life Story of Manson F. Backus, Forty-five years a Banker in the Pacific Northwest by N. R. Knight (Seattle: Dogwood Press, 1937), and John V. Peters, "Manson F. Backus: His Life and Legacy", published in History Notes, 2011 by the Lake Chelan Historical Society.

[4] The Chelan Leader of August 24, 1911 is missing from the bound copies of The Chelan Leader held by the Lake Chelan Museum and newspapers from this era are not held at the offices of the successor paper, The Chelan Valley Mirror. I found this article in the Chelan Valley Mirror of August 13, 1936 under the heading "25 Years Ago". None of the other August issues of The Chelan Leader contained the article, nor did the papers of the surrounding months. I conclude that the article must have been in the August 24, 1911 issue of The Chelan Leader.

Hotel At Manson

Bids have been asked by Leroy M. Backus, president of the Lake Chelan Land Co., for the construction of a hotel at the new town of Manson.

Plans were exhibited to the News man in the company's office one day this week.

The plans call for a two-story building, 57 x 40 in dimensions. The first floor is to contain an office and private apartments for Mr. Backus, which will include dining room, kitchen and bath room. The lower floor will likewise contain an office and drafting room. The second floor calls for a large living room surrounded by six bed rooms.

The rafters in the living room will be left bare to give it a rustic appearance. Underneath the floor a pit will be built in which a furnace will be installed.

The building will be of a bungalow style, and will be located in the most desirable portion of the new town.

For financial or other reasons this plan fell by the wayside and the hotel envisioned by Leroy Backus in August 1911 was not built. The hotel idea was not picked up again until 2 ½ years later.

Paul Ford, Builder and Owner of Wapato Inn

Not until 1914 was the plan given new life. On February 23, 1914 The Chelan Leader reported:

The frequently repeated report that a large hotel would be erected at Manson seems at last to have become a substantial reality. Paul Ford, the enterprising young engineer associated with the Lake Chelan Land Co., has plans drafted for a 15-room hotel on which work will begin soon.

The Chelan Leader, April 16, 1914:

The foundation for the new hotel will be completed this week and next week the superstructure will be started.

The Chelan Leader, May 7, 1914:

Work on the superstructure of the new hotel building is being pushed along vigorously with a large force of carpenters employed, and the roof will be on in about two weeks.

The Chelan Leader, May 21, 1914:

Work on the new hotel building is progressing steadily and very satisfactorily. The building, according to the new plans, will not be as large as was originally intended, but it will be much more attractive in exterior appearance and much better appointed in the interior than was provided by the original plans. The building affords only six guest rooms but it is the plan of the owner to build small cottages nearby as the demand for more room increases.

The Chelan Leader, June 11, 1914:

Work on the new hotel is progressing rapidly and the structure will be complete and ready for opening to the public on the fourth of July.

Who Was Paul Ford?

Paul Newcomb Ford was born November 20, 1886 in North Dakota to William Field Ford and Evangeline May (Underwood) Ford. His siblings were Don Sneath, Sannie May, Marjory Cary, Nellie White and William Field Ford, Jr. Their father died when Paul was 11 years old. Paul received a B.S. in civil engineering from Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa on June 13, 1907. His travels from that time until June 1911 are traced by postcards he sent. In 1907 Paul visited Pennsylvania, North Dakota, Montana and Utah. 1908 found him in Utah, Colorado, Minnesota, North Dakota, Washington State, British Columbia, California, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama and finally by ship to New York City. He then attended graduate school at Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, South Dakota. From September 1909 to June 1911 Paul was teaching at Michigan State University in Lansing, Michigan.

In June 1911 he traveled in Canada and Montana. Paul's daughter, Eva, believes that her father and Carl C. Troxel first visited Lake Chelan in 1908 while they were traveling extensively together that year. According to Eva, Troxel kept a journal on the travels and Paul declared that the Lake Chelan area is "the most beautiful place in the world." Both men became early residents in Manson. In August 1911 The Chelan Leader picks up the story of Paul Ford in Chelan. Paul's mother had died in April of that year and Paul brought the two youngest of his siblings out to Chelan to live with him in a home he had rented on Woodin Avenue. Paul's sister, Sannie, was a recent college graduate and his brother, William Field or Bill, was 14 years old. In December, The Leader reports: "Miss Sannie Ford has gone to Wenatchee to take the teachers' examination. She has been engaged to teach the school at Deer Point." In 1913 or 1914 Sannie became the assistant postmaster in Chelan. In 1914 Sannie married Henry Kingman of Chelan and in 1916 the two purchased the Lucerne Hotel. Bill completed high school in Chelan and in 1924 he married Margaret Richardson of Chelan.

Paul married Mary Elizabeth Morrow of Mitchell, South Dakota, on December 10, 1912 and they came immediately to Chelan. Mary was born in 1890 and, after her mother died when she was three years old, she was raised by a well-to-do couple in Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Morrow. Mary graduated from Dakota Wesleyan University in 1912. In a transcript of an oral history tape made in 1978, Mary Ford recalled:

Well I never called it a hotel, but people did, well the thing was there was no place for people to stay when they came there. So they came to our house—it wasn't a hotel. Backus—he was the land company, they were millionaires in Seattle, came to our house to stay. I remember him sleeping on our couch, when the beds were all full. He slept on my couch many a time.[5]

Mary Ford is referring to LeRoy Backus, President of the land company, who visited Manson often and stayed at the Wapato Inn using it as his headquarters.

Continuing the Wapato Inn Story

The original Manson town site was re-platted in late 1915 and I am using this later plat to identify lot numbers.

The Chelan Leader, January 21, 1915

That Manson is on a building boom is plain to be seen even by the knocker—if there is such a thing in Manson,--for in the past few months numerous residences have been built, along with the new hotel and school house and with the completion of the new creamery one can easily see that the hammer is constantly busy in Manson.

The need for rooms to rent in Manson is indicated by the following news story.

The Chelan Leader, March 4, 1915

Blanchard Hotel Reopened

Mrs. A. W. Blanchard wishes to announce that she has returned to Manson after an absence of several months and that the Blanchard Hotel is again open to the public.

The A. W. Blanchard property was lot 13 of block 4 on the waterfront of Manson bay, located about where a winter boat launch ramp now sits. All the Manson waterfront lots were flooded when the lake was raised in 1927.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, April 22, 1915

Paul Ford and family moved into their new bungalow just south of Wapato Inn last Thursday, having leased that cozy hostelry to Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron, experienced hotel people formerly of Seattle.

Paul and Mary Ford moved into the Wapato Inn but lived there for less than a year; their first daughter, Florence, was born at the Wapato Inn. Paul built the bungalow home referred to in the newspaper on lot 7, block 1, just across McLaren Avenue from the Wapato Inn. In 1915 Paul and Mary Ford owned the three lots associated with the Wapato Inn and thirteen more lots in the Manson town site, which I have highlighted on the town site map.[6]

We can trace the lineage of the McLaren Avenue bungalow in the newspaper. The Lake Chelan News-Leader of March 16, 1916 reports: "Mrs. Meyer and Miss Cavanaugh have moved into the Ford house near the lake shore." The Chelan News-Leader of December 18, 1919 carried this item: "Fred Phillips bought of Cal Brown last week the 10 acre tract of three year old trees and alfalfa, strawberries, etc. known as the Fred Taylor tract, opposite Morehead's highline division. The Brown's have moved into the Paul Ford house on the town site, purchased by them some time ago." The Cal Brown house later became the Willie and Wanda Miller house, and remains in the Miller family. County Assessor records show this house as having been built in 1913, but it seems more likely from the newspaper evidence that it was built in 1914 at the same time that the Wapato Inn was built and probably by the same workmen then employed by Paul Ford to build the Wapato Inn.

As for Paul, he seems to have moved into or built yet another home in March 1916 after moving out of his bungalow on McLaren Avenue. The Chelan News-Leader of November 16, 1916 reports: "Mr. Ford has the rock work started for a fireplace for his residence." The newspaper doesn't identify the location of this residence. Then on September 27, 1917 the newspaper reports: "Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Ford and family are preparing to move to Chelan for the winter. Mr. Ford has accepted a position as Instructor of Manual Training and Physics in the Chelan High School." On September 12, 1918 we read: "Paul Ford is adding a large wing to his already good sized barn to take a car or two, a cow and a team." Then on November 7, 1918, the Chelan Leader reported: "Paul Ford was accepted on examination for a position in the engineer corps of the army of France, and has already gone to training camp. His family has gone to South Dakota to spend the winter with relatives. Their Manson home will be occupied by Mel Watkinson and family." World War I came to an end on November 11, 1918, a date now known as Armistice Day. On December 19, 1918: "Word has been received that P. N. Ford, who enlisted in the U. S. service and went into officer's training camp in Kentucky this fall, has joined his family, at Mitchell, S. D., and that they may return to Seattle for the winter." The Chelan Leader, March 25, 1920: "Paul Ford and family will take possession of the Kingman cottage, being vacated by Mr. Petty." And the News-

[6] The Trustee's Deed for the City of Manson re-plat was recorded December 6, 1915 and associated documents identify all of Paul and Mary Fords land holdings as well as those of a number of other property owners.

Leader reports on May 27, 1920: "Paul Ford has erected a small bungalow on the lake shore, and his family is expected soon. We are pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Ford, for the summer at least." Perhaps this "small bungalow on the lake shore" was built on lot 8, block 4, just across Pedoi Street from the Wapato Inn. If so, it would have been dismantled when Lake Chelan was raised in 1927. In 1920 Paul and Mary Ford and their children had settled in Seattle.

The Heyday of the Wapato Inn—1915-1916

Lake Chelan News-Leader, May 27, 1915:

M. Cameron, of Wapato Inn, is figuring on serving ice cream and cake evenings and Sundays, as soon as the weather warms up.

For several days during the week, Mr. and Mrs. F. Backus [Manson F. Backus] and Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Green of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Swalwell and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jensen of Everett, were the guests of Leroy Backus at Wapato Inn. All these people are financially interested in the project, and they were much pleased with the progress made in its development.

As was his original plan in 1911, LeRoy Backus was using the Wapato Inn as his home while in Manson and his headquarters for the Lake Chelan Land Company offices. LeRoy had a large home in Seattle next door to his father's mansion. LeRoy earned an A.B. degree from Harvard in 1902 and married Edith Helen Fredericka Boetzkes, an 1898 Columbia University graduate, on July 26, 1906. Edith taught German and French in the Brooklyn, NY, high school system before her entire family of six moved to Seattle, where she became head of the language department at the new Broadway High School in 1902. LeRoy and Edith married on July 26, 1906. Edith's younger brother, Harry W. Boetzkes, was an engineer who played a significant role with the Lake Chelan Land Company and has a street in Manson named after him, Boetzkes Avenue. The town also has a Ford Street, named after Paul N. Ford, and a Green Avenue, named after Joshua Green.

Joshua Green was, in 1915, a wealthy Seattle Puget Sound ship owner and maritime entrepreneur. He was born in a mansion in Mississippi on October 16, 1869 into a well-off family that was struggling to regain their foothold in reconstruction Mississippi after the civil war. His father, before the Civil War, had started a drug store in Jackson, Mississippi, and branched out to own a cotton mill and the J. and T. Green Bank. When Joshua was 16 years old, in1886, the entire family left Mississippi. Joshua was 17 years old when the family arrived in Seattle in late 1886. Joshua found jobs on Puget Sound steamers and discovered that he loved the work. He gained master and captain licenses and found partners with which to buy a boat and enter the steamer business. With his energy and business judgment he prospered with the rush of activity around Seattle and the Puget Sound region as far as Alaska. He became President of the La Conner Trading and Transportation Company and later merged with the Alaska Steamship/Puget Sound Navigation Company. Joshua Green was the Secretary of the Wapato Irrigation Company and large investor in the Lake Chelan Land Company. In January 1920 he came to Chelan and spent two days negotiating with Walter Olive, trustee of the bankrupt Lake Chelan Land Company and the Lake Chelan Reclamation District. In the end they agreed on a plan to transfer all the assets and water rights accumulated by the Lake Chelan Water Company to the Lake Chelan Reclamation District.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, May 27, 1915:

The Wapato Inn has, as many predicted, outgrown its capacity. Arrangements have been made by Paul Ford to finish up the large airy basement for a kitchen, dining room and laundry, and the house will be enlarged by the addition of several bed rooms. Modern plumbing and heating apparatus will be installed and the whole building will be wired for light. This will make it second to no hotel on Lake Chelan.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, July 1, 1915, announces a change of management.

Mr. Swick and family moved into Wapato Inn last week and will run the inn in the future.

Lake Chelan News-Leader on July 15, 1915:

The improvements on the Wapato Inn announced a week or two ago are now under way. Much galvanized pipe, iron bath tubs, lavatory bowls and other plumbing material is on the ground and more arriving daily. Paul Ford is at Wenatchee looking up other supplies. Gordon's mill people are making deliveries via ferry of a quantity of lumber to be used in alterations.

In the same issue of the newspaper, we read this:

Evenings and Sundays during the balance of the summer Mrs. Swick will serve ice cream on the veranda of the Wapato Inn.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, July 22, 1915:

Mrs. Manson F. Backus and sister-in-law, Mrs. Max Piutti, Dean of Wells college of Aurora, N. Y., spent a few days on the lake this week.

The story doesn't say where the two stayed but it seems reasonable to think they stayed at the Wapato Inn, where Mrs. Backus had stayed with her husband and others just two months before.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, August 12, 1915:

Miss Louise Jabelmann of Cheyenne, Wyo., arrived on the jitney, with Mr. and Mrs. Backus Monday evening and will make her home at the Wapato Inn. Miss Jabelmann will act as stenographer in the company's office, the position formerly held by Miss Baldwin.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, August 19, 1915:

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Christopher, of Wenatchee, and their guest, Mrs. Joseph Christopher, of Auburn, Ill., drove over in the former gentleman's car from the county seat on Monday, and are spending a few days at Wapato Inn.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, December 2, 1915:

Among the land seekers who have been quartered at the Wapato Inn the past week were A. D. Willbanks and Albert Hullman, of Springfield, Ill.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, December 16, 1915:

Having given up their lease of the Wapato Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Swick are disposing of their household effects, a quantity of fine canned fruit, team and implements, and will return to their old home near Springfield, Illinois. These people, during their sojourn on the project, have made many friends. All will regret to see them go. The family like the Chelan country very much, but the call of the parents and grand folks back home has proven too much for them. They leave about the end of this week and will, with good luck, partake of the Christmas Goose with the home folks.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, January 6, 1916

The Manson ladies gave their chicken pie watch meeting as announced last week, at Wapato Inn, instead of the city hall, the use of the hotel being tendered them by Paul Ford. This was a much more cozy and homelike arrangement, and everyone enjoyed the nice supper. Quite a sum was realized for the school piano fund.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, January 27, 1916

Every available man and team on the project and many from nearby farms have been harvesting ice. A fine field has formed in the sheltered bay west of Wapato point, the ice being 10 to 12 inches thick. Among those 'putting up' are Paul Ford, one house for Wapato Inn and one for private use, Jno. Moore, J. R. Laycock, G. S. Barkley, C. C. Ward, Mr. Buttles, Creamery Co., Holder and Meluis, A. Shelden.

March 2, 1916, Lake Chelan News-Leader

Several of the matrons of Manson are giving a party at Wapato Inn Tuesday night. The ladies are putting forth special efforts to make this occasion an especially enjoyable one.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, March 16, 1916

The appearance of Wapato Inn is being improved by a coat of paint. The interior arrangement has been changed to make more sleeping apartments and when the hotel is again opened to the public it will be a comfortable and modern establishment.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, March 23, 1916

Wapato Inn is to be opened at once by Mrs. Barrett of Seattle. Mrs. Barrett arrived Tuesday morning and began at once to get the rooms ready for the furnishings which were shipped from Seattle last week. Mrs. Barrett is an experienced hotel woman and prospects for a fine season are extremely good.

Chelan News-Leader, April 6, 1916

The improvements that have for some weeks been under way at the Wapato Inn, are now completed and the hotel was informally opened during the week by Mrs. Ida Barrett, of Seattle. Mrs. Barrett is an up to date go-ahead business woman, and the Inn will be run on strict business principles. A larger garden will be put in on the ground owned by the Townsite Co., and the table will be supplied with the best of everything. A large bill of furniture recently purchased at Seattle will arrive Saturday.

Four of Chelan's lady teachers walked out Saturday and lunched at the Inn.

Miss Barrett, of Seattle, daughter of Mrs. Barrett of Wapato Inn, arrived via the jitney Wednesday morning for a visit with her mother.

Chelan News-Leader, April 13, 1916

Miss Barrett, of Seattle, came in Wednesday, and will spend the summer here with her mother, Mrs. Ida Barrett.

Lake Chelan News-Leader, June 8, 1916

Mrs. Barrett's sister and children returned to their home Tuesday after several days visit with her here.

Chelan News-Leader, August 1, 1916

Wapato Inn is now in charge of Mrs. G. Goldsmith. Mrs. Goldsmith, who is well known here, is an excellent cook and should have her share of patronage.

The dance at the Pavilion Friday drew a large crowd, a large number from the surrounding towns attending. Little's orchestra furnished the music and lunch was served at midnight by Mrs. Goldsmith of the Wapato Inn.

Lake Chelan Land Company Becomes Second Owner of Wapato Inn

On August 12, 1916 Paul Ford sold the Wapato Inn and its three contiguous lots to the Lake Chelan Land Company.

Chelan News-Leader, August 22, 1916

Mary Roberts Rinehart and her party were met at Wenatchee Sunday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Furey and after a pleasant trip up the Columbia by auto, arrived in Manson about 8 p.m. Dinner was served them at Wapato Inn. Monday forenoon was spent in driving over the project and soon afternoon the party boarded the Mohawk for the trip uplake. Mrs. Rinehart is of a cheerful and congenial disposition and left an unusually friendly feeling among all those who met her.

The write-up of this trip by Mary Roberts Rinehart, her husband and their three sons, appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine in 1917 and in a book, Tenting To-Night: A Chronicle of Sport and Adventure in Glacier Park and the Cascade Mountains.

Chelan News-Leader, September 19, 1916

M. E. Field and Family Lease Wapato Inn property

Chelan News-Leader, December 28, 1916

M. E. Field has purchased Wapato Inn and after having it remodeled will fit it up as a residence for his family. Mr. Field has also contracted for several hundred acres of land to be used for pasture, wheat and alfalfa, as he expects to go into the dairy business.

A meeting of all the owners of land on the project was called at the old school house on Thursday night and the question of changing the irrigation system from a privately owned system to a district owned by the people was discussed. A temporary chairman, M. E. Field, and a temporary secretary, Mr. Glasgow, were elected. Another meeting is called for next Thursday evening at Wapato Inn.

An abstract of title done in 1945 by Valley Title Company, Inc. of Wenatchee, WA shows that M. E. Field did not purchase the Wapato Inn; he apparently leased the building and grounds.

M. E. Field and family were living at their home at Deer Point before moving to Manson. The Chelan News-Leader of September 19, 1916 stated "Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ward and family spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Field at Deer Point."

Following is a photo of the Field Home in Manson, 1917-1921, from The Stehekin We Remember, page 149.

Chelan News-Leader, January 4, 1917

The second meeting of the landowners in this locality was held at Wapato Inn Thursday evening. Following 6 o'clock dinner a discussion led by Mr. Haskell of Wenatchee, was carried on and many new points were brought out. The report of the committee appointed at an earlier meeting to draw the district boundary, was accepted and the petition to the County Commissioners was signed, about sixty-five land owners attaching their names. When the Commissioners convene again the question as to whether or not we are to have an irrigation district, will be settled.

Chelan News-Leader, February 15, 1917

The meeting which was to have been held at Wapato Inn on Thursday, was postponed until Tuesday of this week.

Chelan News-Leader, March 1, 1917

Mr. and Mrs. Yotter of Sand Point, Idaho, have been stopping at Wapato Inn several days.

Chelan News-Leader, March 8, 1917

Big Holstein Herd for Manson Farm

M. E. Field adds 79 Heifers to his Dairy Herd, Making Total about 200

This large increase in his herd should be a big boost for the Creamery at Manson, and help much in building up that community. The livestock industry around Lake Chelan is growing and means much prosperity in the future.

M. E. Field was now playing a significant role in Manson's economic development as well as guiding the community away from a privately owned irrigation company to a public irrigation district devoted solely to the interests of the farmers rather than to the land company's bottom line. The Wapato Irrigation Company and the Lake Chelan Land Company always had largely overlapping ownership and management. With the land company in financial trouble and possibly headed to bankruptcy court, the urgency to replace the private irrigation company with a public irrigation district seemed urgent. Without reliable and fair administration of irrigation water, the entire Manson community could be in jeopardy.

Chelan News-Leader, July 19, 1917

Ladies, do your bit: the Red Cross work is here in Manson now and Mrs. M. E. Field has given the use of a room in her house every Wednesday afternoon for sewing.

Chelan News-Leader, November 8, 1917

Walter M. Olive of Seattle, recently appointed by the Federal Court as Trustee of the Lake Chelan Land Company, was in Manson this week.

I include this item simply to indicate that the owner of Wapato Inn at this time, the Lake Chelan Land Company, had entered bankruptcy proceedings in late 1917 (filed October 31, 1917) and Walter M. Olive is now the trustee of that company. Walter M. Olive was the first cousin of my maternal grandfather, Benjamin Vaughan, of Cashmere. Benjamin and Walter's mothers were sisters. Walter's father and mother lived in Cashmere, having come from New Brunswick, Canada after selling their shipping and other interests there. Walter's brother, Leonard Olive, had been a central figure with the Lake Chelan Land Company in the early years, being in charge of clearing the land, planting apple trees and caring for the trees until the properties were sold. Walter and Leonard's father bought some property from the land company as one of his many investments, ranging from Cashmere orchards to Wenatchee office buildings and beyond. C. C. Ward, an engineer and another of the central figures in the early land company, was married to Walter and Leonard's sister, Harriett.

Chelan News-Leader, December 13, 1917

The Lake Chelan Irrigation District have elected directors. The old board: Chas. Rubin, W. F. Buttles, and M. E. Field, was elected by safe majorities.

M. E. Field officially became one of three board members of the new Lake Chelan Irrigation District at Manson.

Since the Wapato Inn was now the private home of M. E. Field and family, there are only a few newspaper articles to indicate how the home was being used during this period.

Chelan News-Leader, January 17, 1918

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Field entertained at dinner Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. C. C. Ward's and Mr. Glasgow's birthday.

Chelan News-Leader, March 14, 1918

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Field entertained at dinner and cards Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Furey. Five tables were in play and every one enjoyed a delightful evening at Bridge.

Chelan News-Leader, March 13, 1919

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buckner, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Field, on Wednesday.

This item announced the birth of Irene Myra Buckner, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Field. Harry and Olive Buckner lived at Stehekin, but traveled down lake to her parents' home to have the child. Irene Field later married Anton "Tony" Sargo.

The 1920 census tells us who was living in the Field's home at that time. Along with Merritt Field, 57 years of age, and his wife, Martha, 45 years of age, were their three children: Hal, 14 years of age; Martha Joy, 9 years of age; and Walter, 6 years of age. In addition, Martha's brother, John Ohlhausen, 49 years of age, was living in the home.

In 1921 Olive Buckner again made the trip from Stehekin to Manson to stay with her parents in the former Wapato Inn to give birth to her second daughter, Harriet Olive Field (nicknamed Hobbie). She later married Kenneth Morehead.

With the Wapato Inn still a private residence, the Chelan News-Leader of June 10, 1920 carried the following story.

Manson has never felt the need of a hotel as now. The Finch, Varney, and other homes are most acceptably taking good care of 20 to 40 people each in the way of meals.

Chelan Orchards Becomes the Third Owner of Wapato Inn property

A property deed dated June 12, 1920 states that "Walter M. Olive, as Trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of the Lake Chelan Land Company, a corporation, bankrupt, of the City of Seattle, King County, Washington to Chelan Orchards, a corporation" transferred all company assets for the sum of $325,000. These assets included the Wapato Inn, at that time leased to M. E. Field and in use by his family as a private residence.

Chelan Leader, September 16, 1920

Mr. Wm. Calvert Jr., of Seattle, president of the Lake Chelan Orchards is here and the family will spend their summer vacation in the valley. Last week Sunday this party piloted by Manager Walter Olive, and accompanied by Mr. J. F. Duthie, of shipbuilding fame, made the drive easily in an 8-passenger car to Camp 4 on Grade creek where the HL [High Line] extension work is in progress, and all are enthusiastic over the beautiful scenery up that way. Mr. Calvert claims that at small expense $100,000, one of the most beautiful scenic drives in the west can be constructed, all the way to Stehekin, via Antilone lake, the only heavy work on the route being at Grade creek crossing.

The president of Chelan Orchards, William Calvert, Jr., was a wealthy resident of Seattle. Frank Calvert, a prominent Seattle cartoonist and William's brother, edited "a reference book of Seattle's Successful Men" in 1911 which included his brother, William. In 1911, William Calvert, Jr. was president of the San Juan Fishing and Packing Company, with its own fleet of fishing vessels, canneries and storage plants. "He is also president of the Pacific Ice Company, and has other extensive business interests." William and his wife, Edna, were among the first shore side residents of Medina, then a haven for the very rich, where they built a mansion. They also owned a 5,000 square foot home in Seattle at 1158 17th Avenue on Capitol Hill. By November 1922 Chelan Orchards held cash, contracts and mortgages in the amount of $523,585 from land sales, with perhaps half the properties from the 1920 purchase still unsold.

J. F. Duthie was a business associate and friend of William Calvert. Duthie came from a wealthy Scottish shipbuilding family. Born in Liverpool, England, he came to America in 1888, worked in shipyards in Bristol, Rhode Island and Portland, Oregon, before coming to Seattle and forming his own company in 1911. J. F. Duthie and Company expanded during World War I and by 1920 he was considered a millionaire. His shipyard sat on 12 acres of waterfront property on the eastern edge of Seattle. There was a five page article with 10 photographs of his shipyard in the July 1917 issue of International Marine Engineering. The Duthie shipyard had four slips and was operating three work shifts a day in 1917 building large steel ships for the U. S. Government.

Harry Saddler and Family Leases Wapato Inn property

In the 1920 census Harry Saddler, age 64; his wife Mary, age 49; his two sons James, age 21, and Perry, age 20; and his daughter, Lillie, age 9, were living together at Tunk Creek, Okanogan, Washington. The entire family seems to have moved to Manson in late 1920 or early 1921.

Chelan Leader, March 31, 1921

Perry Saddler, son of F. H. Saddler, is putting up a bungalow on lots recently purchased from the company in Manson townsite. This is the third new home erected on that block, which is located just west of the Sherman Bell residence.

Chelan Leader, July 28, 1921

Saddler & Sons have a contract to get out at once 50,000 feet of flume lumber for the Grade Creek flumes.

Chelan Leader, December 14, 1921

M. E. Field has sold his Manson home to Harry Saddler, and the new owner is now in possession. Mr. Saddler will at once begin to remodel the building to about its original rooming capacity, and once again "the stranger within our gates" will have a first rate place to 'hang up.' Several convenient bungalows will also be erected on lots belonging to the property along the sandy beach, for the use of families during the summer season. Mr. Field and family will return to their stock ranch on the north shore of Lake Chelan, where a sawmill plant, taken over in the transfer, will be erected and put into operation.

Again I mention that the Abstract of Title for the Wapato Inn properties show no ownership by either M. E. Field or Harry Saddler; what may have been sold was the lease to the properties.

Chelan Leader, December 28, 1921

About 98 friends and neighbors, from the points of the compass, foregathered at Hotel Saddler Monday evening for a hop, and taking possession of the house held it to the "we sma' hours." There was good music galore, and good eats as well, and if anyone present failed to have a good time, he is as yet to be heard from.

Chelan Leader, October 18, 1923

Those last week registering at the Manson Hotel were: M. Sweeney of Seattle; Elmer Rector of Seattle; W. Leonard and J. Foster of Wenatchee; E. C. Dodge of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; F. Robinson of Spokane; William Grubb of Manson.

Mr. H. Saddler will next week start getting pine logs at the Cooper Gulch mill, for the spring cutting. The two Saddler boys, James and Perry, will select a crew of six men to do the work.

Chelan Leader, October 25, 1923

Latest arrivals at the Manson Hotel: Jack McCallum, Seattle; Walter McCallum, Seattle; A. J. Mason, Post Falls, Idaho; J. Finch, Wenatchee.

Chelan Leader, May 8, 1924

The Saddler mill was unable to work part of last week waiting for repairs.

Chelan Leader, May 15, 1924

Harry Saddler has a fine garden and is getting ready for the busy season.

This seems to indicate that the Saddler Hotel or Manson Hotel was still operating.

Chelan Leader, July 10, 1924

Mr. and Mrs. Graves of Leavenworth are visiting her mother, Mrs. S. Bell, and her sister, Mrs. H. Saddler.

This item establishes the relationships of the Graves, the Sherman Bell family and the Saddler family. However, Mrs. H. Saddler in the article should read "Mrs. James Saddler" since James Saddler married Mary Bell, the daughter or Sherman and Lena Bell. Perhaps the confusion occurred because Harry Saddler's wife was also named Mary and her middle name was Belle.

Chelan Leader, February 12, 1925

Harry Saddler's new mill is an up-to-date saw mill and box factory. It is all electric equipped throughout. Mr. Blackman did the wiring.

Chelan Leader, June 25, 1925

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Saddler are busy now days building their new home.

Perry Saddler's new restaurant is sure on the boom.

Chelan Valley Mirror, April 22, 1926

Saddler's Sawmill At Manson Is Destroyed By Fire This Morning

Saddler's Sawmill at Manson was destroyed by fire early this morning. It was first thought that the fire must have started from the fire box, but Saddlers who were at the mill late last night state that every bit of fire in the grates was out.

The entire plant burned to the ground and every piece of machinery was destroyed. There was no insurance.

Not only did the plant burn, but the lumber in the yard as well. They had just finished sawing out some big timbers for Grant-Smith & Co.—in fact, Grant-Smith Co. had just recently placed quite an order for lumber with them.

The mill burned about 3 o'clock this morning. When the blaze was discovered, the entire mill was afire. There was no way to put it out.

This mill, which has been in operation the past few years, meant a good deal to Manson and its loss will be felt by the entire community as well as the owners. The capacity of the mill was between 15 and 20 thousand feet a day it is understood.

Grant-Smith Co. was the contractor for power station work, including tunnels through the mountain to the Chelan Falls electrical generating plant.

Harry, Mary and Lillian Saddler seem to have remained in Manson until 1927 or 1928 before moving to Bonners Ferry, Idaho. Their two sons, Perry and James, also moved away sometime after the Saddler sawmill burned and both sons, along with their families, show up later living in Idaho.

The Chelan Valley Mirror of May 3, 1928

Harry Saddler had the misfortune to break his hip last Thursday when he fell from a building.

Perry Saddler, of Grant's Pass, came over Thursday to see his father, who has a broken hip.

Perhaps Perry Saddler came from Grant's Ferry, Idaho, rather than Grants Pass, Oregon. Perry and his family were living in Bonners Ferry, Idaho, when the 1930 census was taken. The next item shows Jim and Mary Saddler living in Grant's Ferry, Idaho, in August 1929.

Chelan Valley Mirror, August 1, 1929

Mrs. Joe Butterbaugh and daughter, Mildred, who have been visiting with Mrs. Butterbaugh's sister, Mrs. Jim Saddler at Grant's Ferry, Idaho, for the past ten days, returned home Saturday.

Chelan Valley Mirror, January 30, 1930

Mrs. Jim Saddler, on receiving word that her father-in-law, Harry Saddler, died Sunday night [January 26, 1930], left Monday for Bonners Ferry, Idaho. Mr. Saddler has resided in Manson for many years and it has been only the last two years that he has resided at Bonners Ferry. Mr. and Mrs. Saddler had charge of the Hotel at Manson for several years.

Both Mrs. Joe Butterbaugh and Mrs. Jim Saddler were daughters of Sherman and Lena Bell, early Manson residents.

The 1930 census shows Perry Saddler (30) and his wife Celelia (25) living in Bonners Ferry, Idaho. In the household with them are their three children Harry (6), Vaida (3), Roy (less than 1) and Perry's mother, Belle (58). Mary Saddler's middle name was Belle and she used it in the 1930 census.

Chelan Orchards and the Hotel

Following the departure of Harry Saddler, it appears that Chelan Orchards operated the hotel itself. But there are no mentions of this in the Chelan Valley Mirror. The Abstract of Title from 1945 shows that Chelan Orchards continued to own the Wapato Inn properties until 1937.

Diamando (Manda) Tagas, daughter of John and Helen Tagas, relates what her father told her. He told her that he rented a room in the former Wapato Inn from 1927 into 1930. During this time he worked as a cook for the irrigation district, feeding its work crews. The irrigation district did a great deal of work during these years to address stream flow shortages by adding two more streams, Falls and Safety Harbor, and increasing the storage capacity of the Antillon Reservoir as well as rebuilding flumes after major damage from forest fires. The hills of Manson reminded John Tagas of his native Kalamata, Greece and the country appealed to him. He sold his Seattle holdings and bought three lots in the Manson. In 1930 he built a small home on one of his three properties located just half a block to the east of the old Wapato Inn. John (Ioannis) Christo Tagas left Greece in 1905 at age 19 and sailed to New York City, where he worked at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. He later traveled to Boston, where he worked in a hat factory. Dissatisfied with the weather, he traveled by rail to Los Angeles and worked at the Ambassador Hotel. Still not settled, he moved to Astoria, Oregon, for a short time and then to Seattle, Washington. In time he became a chef at the Olympic Hotel and finally opened his own Seattle restaurant at Ninth and Pike in 1919. In 1927 he made Manson his permanent home.

There is anecdotal evidence that single school teachers stayed at the former Wapato Inn in the 1920's and/or the early 1930's. My cousin Vera Peters, later Riggins, referred to the old hotel as a teacherage, which she explained was a home for single school teachers when she was growing up in Manson. Vera graduated from Manson High School in 1933.

In Summary

The Wapato Inn was owned by Paul and Mary Ford when built in 1914. It was sold to the Lake Chelan Land Company in August 1916, which had used it as its Manson headquarters. LCLC President LeRoy Backus stayed at the Wapato Inn whenever he was in Manson and his secretary, Miss Louise Jabalmann, lived full time at the Wapato Inn from August 1915 to November 1916. All LCLC properties, including the Wapato Inn, were sold via bankruptcy proceedings to the Chelan Orchards corporation in June 1920. Chelan Orchards sold the former Wapato Inn to Elmer and Minnie McReynolds for a private residence in May 1937. Finally, it was sold to Modest and Dorothy Peters in August 1945. Ownership continues to reside in the Peters family.

During the period from April 1915 through December 1916 the Wapato Inn was leased numerous times to hotel operators, who had a very rapid turnover. It was leased as a private residence in the period 1917 through 1921 to Merritt and Martha Field. Newspaper accounts show that it continued to be identified as the Wapato Inn and used for community meetings through the early months of 1917. After the Field's moved back to their Deer Point home in December 1921, Harry Saddler and his wife, Mary, leased and lived in the building and operated it as a hotel. The newspaper called it the Saddler Hotel or just the Manson Hotel and for a while listed the people who were staying there any given week. Coming under the direct management of Chelan Orchards when Harry Saddler left Manson in 1927 or 1928, the hotel seems to have continued to rent rooms until it was sold in May of 1937 to Elmer and Minnie McReynolds who made it their home.

At least three local artists have painted representations of the building—Alice Bumgarner, Dorrie Starr, and Diane Paton Peel.

Memories of early Manson linger on and the word-of-mouth attribution of the term "hotel" still attaches to the building to this day.

The following photos were taken by me in 2006 after the house had been refurbished.

Recites: On June 9, 1911, and for some time prior thereto, the Lake Chelan Land Company was owner of certain lands, including the 68 acres, more or less, within the townsite of Manson, and of certain water right holdings in Chelan County, Washington. The Land Company was at that time bound by certain water right obligations for delivery of water, and on June 9, 1911, in consideration of the assumption by the Water Company of these obligations, the Land Company sold and transferred to the Water Company its water right privileges to the extent of not exceeding 7500 acre feet of water per season, and by the same instrument the Land Company granted to the Water Company the right to assess 5000 acres of its land holdings annually for maintenance of Water Company's irrigation system. At time of granting this assessment privilege the land company was the owner of that portion of sec. 35, twp. 28 N. R. 21 East, lying north of the south, east and west quarter quarter line and this land was included with the area to be irrigated from Water Company irrigation system and thereby subjected to these assessments.
